Murray State Opens Grid Season With East Tennessee

An ambitious Murray State College football squad left early this morning for Johnson City, Tenn., where it will hold a final, light workout in preparation for Saturday night's all-important, season-opening clash with East Tennessee.

Coach Don Shelton reported that the team's morale is higher than at any time since it's been here and that the entire squad is "anxious to get to work." Shelton also announced that end Tom Angerio, who had been on the doubtful list because of a foot injury, will make the trip and may see action in the OVC test. Angerio is a member of the Blue unit, one of three "teams" that are likely to play against the Buccaneers. Shelton didn't disclose which unit, the Blue or Gold, would start the contest but pointed out that each group is expected to see an equal amount of action. Whether or not the Red unit sees much action "depends upon the progress of the game," Shelton said.

As to the Racer opponent, Shelton reported that his staff "doesn't know much about them, but we're not in the dark as much as we were last year." The Racers won that game, 14-0, here in Shelton's debut as Murray State grid coach.

"We expect them to be ready for us and we're definitely not expecting them to be a pushover," Shelton said. "The fact that they're playing on their home field will be a big help to them, too," he added.

Murray State has been tabbed a title contender by most conference sources and Shelton said that he, his staff, and his players "can't help but be aware of it."

"We definitely have championship ambitions, but I'm equally as sure that every other team in the conference has aspirations too," Shelton commented.

"A loss Saturday night could very well knock a team from the title race," Shelton added, pointing out the importance of the contest.

Except for Angerio and Gold team halfback Bud Crofton, the Racers will carry a 35-man squad to Johnson City that is physically sound. Crofton, the Racers' leading ground gainer last season, is nursing a knee injury but still is expected to play.

Gold unit — Quarterback Buddy Parker; Halfbacks Jerry Shelton, CHIEF IS CUT

LEITCHFIELD, Ky. (UPI) — Chief of Police Sherman Wilkerson was severely cut on the head and chest when called to the home of Sanford Meyers by a report of domestic trouble.

"Two other police officers arrested Meyers. They said Wilkerson had received a telephone call from Meyers' family saying he was drunk and causing trouble. Wilkerson was listed in serious condition when taken to a hospital here, but was reported improved this morning."

Floods Spawned by Carla

HERALDING the arrival of Carla, the most powerful tornado of the century, 90-mile-an-hour winds sent shoulder-deep floodwaters into cities along the Texas-Louisiana coastline. Removal of more than 300,000 persons inland in a historic exodus prevented flood casualties.

ARANSAS PASS, TEX. — High water surrounds homes on the Gulf coast as Hurricane Carla approaches.

Fishing Derby Finds Many Top Entries

A flood of fishermen greeted the opening of the third annual Kentucky Lake Fall Fishing Derby. Large strings were the order of the day through opening week which ended at midnight September 9.

The Derby which offers $5,000 in grand prizes plus $25,000 weekly prizes in several categories opened September 1 and runs through November 1. The derby is divided into two divisions. A tourist division for fishermen staying overnight in one of the participating resorts around the lake and an open derby for local fishermen, campers, trailer dwellers and others fishing but not staying overnight in participating resorts.

Top fisherman of the week was Cornelius Houtman, 1222 West 83rd Street, Chicago, Illinois whose 6lb. 13 1/2 oz. largemouth topped the thirteen entries in the black bass division of the tourist derby. Seventy percent of the bass entered were taken on under water baits.

In the open derby, Rev. W. E. Muschke of Murray is in second place in the crappie division with a two pound three ounce crappie he caught September 8.

SPECIAL DIVIDEND

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 393,000 Korean War veterans will receive special GI insurance dividends under a new law signed Wednesday by President Kennedy.

John S. Gleason Jr., administrator of veterans affairs, said Thursday the dividends will go to those who have converted or exchanged their old policies for new ones now in effect. An additional 234,000 who have not converted may receive the benefits if they convert within two years.

B. D. Ferguson, Murray, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri, announces Frank Richards, secretary.

Mr. Ferguson was one of 10 breeders of purebred Aberdeen-Angus in Kentucky elected to membership during the past month.

TEMPERATURES FLARE ON PICKET LINE — With the United Auto Workers and General Motors hoping for a speedy settlement of the industry-wide strike, pickets at the New Departure Division of GM in Bristol, Conn., carry umbrellas in the blazing sun. Some 2,000 workers are out here.

Petit Jury Released Until Next Monday

The Petit Jury has been dismissed until Monday by Judge Earl Osborne.

After having been appointed this week, the jury will probably hear the first trial next week. The Grand Jury has been dismissed after making the report to Judge Osborne and returning ten indictments. A light docket is expected in the September Circuit Court.

Reward Money Posted For Dog Poisoner

Sheriff Cohen Stubblefield today announced that a reward of $100 has been posted for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons who are responsible for the poisoning of pets in the general area of the college campus.

Strychnine has been used in pieces of meat to poison approximately 40 pet dogs within the past two months.

Sheriff Stubblefield said that "because of the danger of fatal poisoning to children" he was glad to start the reward money with a personal contribution. The reward has grown to $100 and others who wish to contribute may do so by calling at the Sheriff's office.

About two months ago about 30 fine dogs were killed with small pieces of wiener which had been dusted with strychnine. This week a number of other dogs were killed in the same manner.

Aroused citizens have urged that some action be taken. Mayor Holmes' Ellis has called in State Police Detective Hugh Page who is working on the case.

Former Resident Dies In St. Louis

Mrs. Allie Hudspeh, age 84, died at 8:00 a.m. today at her daughter's home, Mrs. Maud Pitts, in St. Louis, Missouri following an extended illness.

She is survived by two daughters; Mrs. Maud Pitts of St. Louis, Mrs. Lucy Newton also of St. Louis, and two sons John and Fred Hudspeh also of St. Louis. She is survived by one brother Mr. Will Dulaney of Route 1, Murray.

Mrs. Hudspeh was born in the Kirksey community but has lived in St. Louis for the past few years. She was a member of the Kirksey Methodist Church where funeral services will be held Sunday, September 17, at 2:00 p.m. with Rev. Johnson Easley officiating. Burial will be in Asbury Cemetery.

Friends may call at the J. H. Churchill Funeral Home Saturday after 8:00 a.m.

Any Summit Meeting Must Be Well Prepared For Success

By MERRIMAN SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy declared today the United States will not negotiate with the Russians on Berlin under threat or ultimatum but expressed belief that a "mutually acceptable" solution of the crisis can be reached.

In a message to the neutralist nations which met recently at Belgrade, Kennedy also served notice he would not meet at the summit with Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev until extensive lower-level spadework shows there is a "reasonable chance of success."

He said the United States and its allies have "absolutely no intention" of resorting to force to solve the Berlin and German problems but bluntly added: "We are determined to honor our commitments and are prepared to meet force with force if it is used against us."

Kennedy told the neutralist nations that while the free world Allies agree there must be negotiations, the Kremlin "must give indications of a readiness to engage in discussion based on mutual respect."

"The only conditions it has yet exhibited... are conditions which involve the surrender of Western rights," the President declared.

The President outlined his position at length in identical letters handed last Wednesday at the White House to emissaries from the recent Belgrade conference of neutral nations.

The letter was addressed to Presidents Sukarno of Indonesia and Modibo Keita of Mali. They were asked to relay it to the other participants.

The 25-nation conference called on the Chief Executive to enter into direct negotiations with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev.

At the outset of his letter, Kennedy politely but unmistakably turned down the idea of a quick summit conference without extensive diplomatic groundwork. He said: "While the United States and its Allies are agreed there must be negotiations on the problem, the Soviet Union must give indication of a readiness to engage in discussion based on mutual respect. The only conditions it has yet exhibited... are conditions which involve the surrender of western rights."

FREEDOM IS OUR AIM

RECENTLY we heard a young college student say he believed his generation will witness ultimate victory in the struggle for freedom, or complete world dominance by International Communism. His estimate of the length of time required for this final decision was thirty years.

Everybody has a right to his own opinion as to who will triumph in the war for survival. Ours is that the United States will survive, even though it may have to stand alone.

We believe that because we believe we are on God's side the fight of good against evil. We make many mistakes our relations with others. Far too many. But we have also seen some good for others and we sincerely believe seeds sown by Christian missionaries everywhere have germinated, and will prove productive when the chips are down.

It is disappointing in the extreme to realize how powerful fear is, and to see how skillfully it can be used by sinister actors who would destroy freedom and enslave mankind. It is Christians believe love is a much greater power, and will triumph over fear, or any other destructive force, including nuclear fission bombs.

And speaking of modern weapons: we would crawl in a hole and pull it in after us if we were inclined to believe those who think a backward nation like Russia, with the backing of her satellites, is ahead of us.

President Kennedy says he believes the Russians have shifted two men and brought them safely back to earth. We do not. We believe the first satellite ever brought back into the earth's atmosphere after circling the globe is the one containing a "robot" which we recovered off the coast of Bermuda in less than forty miles of the planned recovery site.

We also believe we have enough nuclear fission weapons in our arsenal to insure our survival in case of a surprise attack, and we believe if our motives were the same as Communists we could conquer the world by beginning with the Soviet Union tomorrow.

Our aim, fortunately, is not to rule the world. It is to insure freedom of choice for all people in the kind of political, economic and religious systems they prefer to live under.

As we rush headlong towards the final struggle with atheism, however, we think students everywhere should reread a prophesy made by the great Winston Churchill in a speech on October 6, 1948. When the United States was the only nation that had solved the problem of how to release atomic energy. It was printed in Wednesday's Memphis Press-Scimitar and it reads:

"The question is asked: what will happen when they get the atomic bomb themselves and have accumulated a large store? You can judge yourselves what will happen then by what is happening now. If these things are done in the green wood, what will be done in the dry? If they can continue month after month disturbing and tormenting the world, trusting to our Christian and altruistic inhibitions against using this strange new power against them, what will they do when they themselves have large quantities of atomic bombs? What do you suppose would be the position then if it had been Communist Russia instead of free enterprise America which had created the atomic weapon? Instead of being a solemn guarantee of peace and freedom it would have become an irresistible method of human enslavement. No one in his senses can believe that we have a limitless period of time before us. We ought to bring matters to a head and make a final settlement. We ought not to go on being adroitly, impotent, waiting for something to turn up, by which I mean waiting for something bad for us to turn up."

UP-News Bulletin, Sept. 12, 1961 — Russia today set off a nuclear blast in the Arctic equal to several million tons of TNT. It was the seventh atomic explosion in the current series.

Drew Pearson reminds his readers that Stevenson's Number One issue in 1956 was a bag on testing nuclear fission bombs. We have awaited his views on what is now taking place.

United Press International
Babe Ruth's whirlwind finish of 1927 appears today to be killing off the chances of Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle to set a new home run record.

The chances of either equalling or breaking Ruth's mark of 60 homers in one season were dimmed near the point of extinction Thursday when both went homerless in the New York Yankees' 8-3 and 4-3 losses to the Chicago White Sox.

With 56 homers in 147 games, Maris now must hit four in his next seven games to equal the record within the 154-game limit prescribed by Commissioner Ford Frick. With 53 homers, Mantle faces the almost impossible task of hitting seven—or an average of one per game for the next seven games.

The Yankees play a 162-game schedule this season, but Frick is standing by his ruling that Maris or Mantle must reach 60 within 154 games to be officially credited with tying the mark.

Play Detroit

The Yankee sluggers go into the last-ditch stage of their long pursuit of the old mark this week-end with a four-game series in Detroit beginning with a two-night doubleheader tonight. At this stage of the 1927 season Ruth was hitting faster than ever—he hit six in his last eight games and four in his last three—but Maris and Mantle are slowing down. Maris hasn't hit one since Sept. 9 and Mantle since Sept. 10.

Maris had three hits in eight trips and Mantle went 0-for-7 in Thursday's doubleheader. Home runs by Floyd Robinson and Jim Landis paced the White Sox' opening-game victory which snapped a 13-game Yankee winning streak and then Al Smith's fourth single capped a three-run ninth-inning rally that enabled the White Sox to deal relief ace Luis Arroyo his fourth loss in the nightcap.

The Yankees' magic pennant-clinching number was reduced to six when the Kansas City A's beat the Detroit Tigers, 5-2, and the Minnesota Twins scored a 3-1 victory after a 5-1 loss to the Los Angeles Angels in other AL games.

Dodgers Win

In the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers put out a 7-6 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates on Duke Snider's ninth-inning homer to move within five games of leading Cincinnati, the St. Louis Cardinals' downed the Chicago Cubs, 8-7 and 6-5, and the Philadelphia Phillies defeated the San Francisco Giants, 4-3.

Bob Shaw won his 11th game with a nine-hitter behind an eight-hit Kansas City attack that included a homer by Wayne Causey and three hits by Jim Rivera. Paul Foytack, ripped for four runs in two innings, was charged with his 10th loss. Dick Brown homered for the Tigers.

Ted Bowsfield pitched a five-hitter and struck out seven to win his 10th game for the Angels but the Twins squared the doubleheader on Jim Kaat's three-hitter. Leon Wagner and Rocky Bridges had two hits each for the Angels in the opener and Lennie Green had two hits for the Twins in the second.

Snider Homers

Snider's three-run pinch homer climaxed a four-run ninth-inning outburst that prevented the Dodgers from falling six games behind the Reds in the NL race. Elroy Face replaced Clem Labine after Frank Howard's single scored one run and put two men on base but Snider followed with his "saving" homer. Catcher Smokey Burgess had paced the Pirates to an early lead with four singles.

Ken Boyer's seven hits, including an 11th-inning homer in the nightcap, paced the Cardinals to their sweep of the Cubs. Boyer, who had five hits in the second game, tied the score at 5-5 with a ninth-inning double. He had a triple and a single and Stan Musial had a homer and two singles to lead the Cardinals' 11-hit attack in the first game.

Wes Covington's 10th-inning

Arra Dunn Circle Of Hazel Woman's Society Of Christian Service Has Regular Meeting

The Arra Dunn Circle of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Hazel Methodist Church met Wednesday afternoon at the church with the chairman, Mrs. Claude Anderson, presiding.

"The Conditions Of A Contemporary Pentecost" was the subject of the program which was opened with a song, "Holy Spirit, Truth Divine." Mrs. J. D. Dill gave the devotion.

Mrs. Rex Huie, program leader, gave the introduction. Conditions present at the first Pentecost and how one can prepare for the coming of the Holy Spirit were the topics presented by Mesdames A. H. Newport, A. H. McCoud, H. O. Brandon, J. E. Clayton, Ralph Edwards, and T. S. Herron.

Mrs. Clayton in presenting her topic made it particularly real, and with much feeling said the most important single element in preparing for the coming of the Holy Spirit was a desire for his presence. Her deep consecration has led her eight children into full time Christian service, four boys and four girls who are ministers, mission teachers, and missionaries.

The song "Spirit of Faith", was read and Mrs. W. S. Jones led the closing prayer.

During the business session the Seminar at Dresden and the Mission Study Course were announced, pledges were paid, and the finance committee urged members to place their orders for Christmas and all occasion cards.

CHAPTER 35

ROLLISON peered in through the lodge window. The night watchman was sitting at a small table, with a newspaper open in front of him. Bill Abbott breathed: "I'll see to 'im okay."

Rollison moved towards the main offices of Silver Queen. He had the layout of the plant clear in his mind's eye. He could see the distant lighted window clearly.

"The works' office," said Rollison. He reached the window, and, standing to one side, peered through.

He could see the grey head of Paul Vance, not far away from him. Vance was sitting at Jameson's desk, his back to the window. The office door was still wide open, and the light came from that and from a single lamp burning over another doorway.

The only sound was the rustle of paper; there was no sign of Reginald Jameson.

Rollison moved across the room, towards doors which opened onto the lipstick shop. He reached the far door, and opened them.

Beyond, he knew, was the room where the lipstick were formed, like bullets; cooled, polished, and fitted into their metal containers.

Standing at a long bench, was Reginald Jameson.

He had one lipstick in his hand, and seemed to be poking something into it.

Two women had died after applying Silver Queen lipstick. Rollison couldn't see clearly enough, and moved two paces forward. Jameson took another red bullet, and pierced a hole in the middle; then he picked up something tiny and white and put it in; he used tweezers, and acted with consummate care, as if what he held was fragile.

It was fragile all right; and deadly, too.

Rollison felt quite sure that it was cyanide.

There were two other girls sitting on the bench, each with lipstick in them. Jameson picked these up, and held them tightly in his hand. As he did that, Rollison backed towards the door, got through without making any sound, and waited behind it.

Jameson went out.

He walked across the dark yard until he reached his door. The light was still on in the office. Jameson went in, and the door swung to behind him.

Rollison waited five minutes at the window and saw no sign of anyone nearby; there were just the two men, Jameson and Paul Vance. Rollison went through the doorway, making no sound, and approached the office. He drew nearer, hearing the mutter of voices.

Jameson said: "Yes, that's it, Vance. That's the whole story. I've been sabotaging Silver Queen. I hate Silver Queen and everyone in it. Understand? I hated your lousy son. I hate you. I hate the Queen herself. Okay, okay, I'm mad! I hope the 'ury agrees with you, that would suit me down to the ground."

Paul Vance said huskily: "Why—why did you turn against me, Reggie?"

"Because of your precious Jimmy," Jameson replied hotly. "He got my sister in trouble. She lived in torment for weeks, and then—she killed herself. But what did you care? Not a damn, Vance. You just wouldn't believe it of your son."

"At first, it just hurt like hell," Jameson went on flatly. "Then I began to hate. Then I began to hurt you."

"Know how I did it, Vance? I began to work for a syndicate of competitors who'd like to buy up Silver Queen. I started sabotage in the factory. I worked on Jimmy and his women. I blackmailed him, and he had to do whatever I wanted him to. And you were scared to case Jimmy was a rat, you wouldn't consult the police—while he was alive or afterwards; you couldn't bring yourself to smear your Jimmy."

"Then Adam Bell came into the picture. Adam was in the next room to Jimmy and me when I was putting the squeeze on Jimmy. Adam recognized Jimmy's voice but not mine. So he left England for New York, to tackle Jimmy about it. They had a hell of a row, over that and over Griselda. I put the American end of the syndicate on to Adam, to keep him off Jimmy, and they drove him under cover."

"Know why he didn't talk at once?"

"He wouldn't betray Jimmy, because it would hurt his friend Paul Vance!"

"Then I killed Jimmy, and framed him for it," Jameson was breathing very loud, as if talking hurt. "Like to know why Jimmy had to die? Because he was after Agatha. He was following her, like he'd followed other women. He used to boast about his conquests—but he started on Agatha."

"First my sister. Then Ag. I knew his time had come, so I followed him and killed him. Tomorrow the newspapers will have the whole story. Sabotage at the factory. The death of Paul Vance. The end of Silver Queen. I'll drop so low—I was going to let you live until the crash," he went on, squeakily. "But Rollison stopped me. I went to Griselda's place. I was going to cut her throat, and make a job of it, and Rollison telephoned her."

"I listened in on an extension, and heard what he said. He's on to me. I tried to finish him, but he dodged, so—I had to get you. That's why I telephoned and told you I knew the truth. I do, don't I?" he screamed. "I've made more lipstick for Griselda!"

"And now it's the end for you," Jameson gasped. "I've finished. I've smashed you and all your posess. I'll get this lipstick to Griselda—don't put your hand to your pocket!" he screamed.

There was silence; then a shout, a shot, a scuffle, a cry. Rollison thrust the door wide. He saw Jameson reach Vance, right hand raised, a dark, ugly bar of iron in it.

He saw the gun in Vance's hand.

Vance fired, again, and Jameson brought the iron down on his head; again and again.

Rollison couldn't stop it, couldn't do a thing about it, because the bullets had missed Jameson, and one had caught him in the leg.

Rollison fell, dropping his gun. Pain and blood mingled. He was on one knee, several feet away from the men. He saw Vance's knees bend under him. His own pain was so great that he couldn't move towards his gun, couldn't do a thing.

Vance was just a head on the floor. Jameson was staring at the window. He raised the bar, Rollison looked towards the window, and saw Griselda Vance. She hadn't stayed in the car. She had looked through the gap and she seemed petrified.

Griselda Vance will have to run for her life. Read the conclusion of "A Matter of Life and Death" tomorrow.

Over The County Agent's Desk

Remove Seedstalks From Rhubarb: Most of you who have grown rhubarb have noticed that some years seed-stalks form in your rhubarb, while other years they do not. Also, some years seed-stalks form early, and other years flowering is late. Regardless of when your rhubarb plants send up a flower-stalk, remove the stalk as soon as possible.

Flowering in rhubarb is a problem and has no value to the home gardener or commercial grower except for those who produce seed. Flowering in rhubarb is not well understood. The crop is grown outdoors during long days and short days, dry days and wet days, and in temperatures ranging from over 100°F to below 60°F in Kentucky. The processes that are triggered off under these conditions largely determine if or when the rhubarb plant will flower.

You may have noticed that one or more plants will not flower, while others are in full bloom. The reason is that rhubarb plants are not alike. Plants of the same variety may be very different. Therefore, varieties which are highly mixed up and poorly handled usually go to seed readily. A good fertilization program will usually hold down flowering. The variety Victoria appears to be the least mixed variety. With good cultural practices it should produce the least amount of flower stalks.

Why remove seedstalks? Flowering occurs at the expense of reserved food. Depletion of stored food will weaken the plant and result in low yields of poor quality petioles the following year.

To learn more about the performance of rhubarb varieties in Kentucky, we have set out several varieties at the Eden Shale Farm this spring. The data obtained from year to year on these varieties should aid us in our recommendations of rhubarb varieties best suited for Kentucky.

Tobacco Resistant To Green Peach Aphid Is Sought: U. K. Agricultural Experiment Station entomologists are continuing a program to help develop burley varieties resistant to the green peach aphid.

This aphid is a sap-sucking insect which can damage leaves. It also can transmit some diseases which are not too important here at present but are potentially harmful.

Richard Thurson, entomologist, is using three avenues of research. One is the use of burley, dark-leaf and flue-cured varieties to check on resistance to the aphid. A second is the use of several hundred foreign tobacco strains, some of which also are resistant. The third is the use of some wild species of tobacco (Nicotiana) which are resistant.

Plant selections of foreign tobaccos have shown more resistance than selections of the standard burley varieties. Crosses of these foreign tobaccos with the burley plants have shown intermediate resistance. The wild species, when crossed with tobacco, have not transmitted the former's high resistance to this aphid. However, resistant selections and crosses with resistance from all three areas are being carried on.

Research on Cattle Bloat Turns Up Possible Culprits: Research by U. K. Agricultural Experiment Station dairymen on causes of bloat has turned up a couple of substances which, when in combination, contribute to this distressing and dangerous condition in cattle.

D. R. Jacobson, dairy researcher, says the substances are glucose and L-dopa clover extract (juice). These two when combined in the laboratory and added to a quantity of rumen contents, caused creation of a gaseous froth similar to that observed in living animals' ruminations. Such a condition in a live animal apparently causes bloat.

September For Seeding and Fertilizing the Lawn: September is the best month of the year for sowing Bluegrass seed. The new plants develop a good root system during the fall and winter and are able to withstand next spring's droughts.

September and March are the best months for fertilizing the lawn. Better get the soil tested to learn fertilizer requirements. If you don't get a soil test but want to play safe on fertilizer, spread 15 pounds of 19-10-10 fertilizer on each thousand square feet of lawn. This 15 pounds per thousand square feet is at the rate of 600 or 700 pounds per acre. Lawns should be fertilized every September and every March.

Former Farm Boy To Market Weird Aircraft

By JACK V. FOX
United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI) — A 39-year-old former Indiana farm boy is about to market a weird-looking aircraft which he thinks may put America in the air as Henry Ford put it on wheels.

Ray Umbaugh of Hagerstown, Md., who has already made the millionaire bracket in mass sale of agricultural fertilizer, is gambling that thousands of individuals will buy this $10,000 autogyro for personal or business use.

The two-seater can take off and land on a five-foot "glide-way." Its backers say its operation is almost as simple as driving a car and that it will be the safest of aircraft—because of autogyro rotors which float the craft down even with the engine shut off.

Umbaugh's theory is that there is a gap in aviation not yet filled. Jet-fighters from coast to coast is one thing. What he is aiming at is "point to point" travel for salesmen, farmers, technicians, vacationers and even commuters.

The big problem was mass production so that the price could be kept below $10,000. The company already has deposits on more than 6,000 craft and plans a production of 10,000 the first year.

The daring of this step is emphasized by the fact that all United States aircraft manufacturers, both private and commercial, produce only a total of 6,500 planes annually.

Planning for the project does not envision back yard landing areas but it almost goes that far. The backers believe suburban housing developments will have their own heliports and that motels and shopping centers will have theirs.

Early orders have come in from companies which must patrol oil and gas pipelines over vast areas; ranchers and crop dusters. Umbaugh himself found he couldn't get around fast enough to push his soil fertilization business. Using airplanes and helicopters instead of automobiles, he and his salesmen flew right into farmers' fields to analyze the soil. They sold chemicals and fertilizers by the carload instead of the sack.

His entry into the autogyro business was the result. The aircraft is still classed as experimental but Federal Aviation Agency approval is expected within the next month.

F.H.A. News

The officers of the Murray College High Chapter of the Future Homemakers of America met in the Home Economics department, September 8th to plan activities for the coming year.

Mary Ann Crawford, president, presided. Other officers for the 1961-62 school year are: 1st vice president - Vandeleve McKee; 2nd vice president - Carolyn Miles; secretary - Linda Shelton; treasurer - Glenda Jones; historian - Betty Crutcher; parliamentarian - Anna Story; reporters - Helen Crutcher, Jetta Culpepper; recreation leader - Jenny Johnson; advisor - Miss Alice Sue Fairless.

All officers were present with the exception of Carolyn Miles. A devotional leader is to be elected at the first meeting this fall. A bulletin board is to be made by Helen and Betty Crutcher to welcome students back to school.

Each year a chapter mother is elected. This is a mother of one of the F.H.A. members. She assists the advisor and chapter. Mrs. T. G. Shelton is chapter mother for 1961-62.

At the Farm Bureau Picnic, August 12, four girls from this chapter presented a skit entitled "Mary had a Little Lamb." Placing fifth they were honored with a check of $25.00 presented by W. R. Perry of the Calloway County Soil Improvement Association Inc.

At present College High does not have a F.H.A. corner. This is a place where the emblem, etc. are exhibited and meetings are held. In the near future this is planned to be set up.

For the first meeting this fall the F.H.A. ABC's are to be presented. In this, each officer explains her duty, using a letter of the alphabet. The freshmen girls who are interested in becoming members will be present.

Also discussed were the nine goals for 1961-62 in the Kentucky Association of F.H.A. Four goals were then selected for the Chapter. Each goal has a committee. A program pertaining to the goal will be presented to the Chapter every fourth week.

Goal 1 To promote the "Family Fitness" project by carrying out a "Civil Defense is a Family Affair" Project. Vandeleve McKee is chairman.

Goal 2 To promote good will by getting to know our neighbors at home and abroad. Chairman is Betty Crutcher.

Goal 3 To promote the "You Can Do" project by confining work on the "Clean Up—Don't Litter Up" campaign. Glenda Jones is chairman.

Goal 4 To promote the recreational activities of our chapter. Chairman is Carolyn Parks.

TOBACCO ADVISORY

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The burley tobacco curing advisory prepared by the United States Weather Bureau in cooperation with the University of Kentucky Department of Agronomy.

Curing conditions for burley tobacco have been only fair for several days but considerably dryer and cooler air with much improved curing conditions is expected to spread into the area today, and tonight.

According to university agronomists, tobacco barns should be open during the daytime and closed at night. If you have been using supplemental heat in your barn, the fires may be allowed to die out today.

Our Soil - Our Strength

By ROBERT BROWN
Soil Conservationist
According to a recent survey there are over 18,000 acres of valuable crop land in Calloway that are some kind of drainage to bring the land into maximum production.

The SCS office spends much of its time consulting with farmers on the advisability of drainage work and then surveying, designing and supervising construction once it has been decided what needs to be done.

Lee Warren Fox, New Concord road, completed 1000 feet of open ditch drainage recently. This work is a part of a complete conservation plan of his farm that was prepared last year.

Sherwood Potts, near Coldwater, had several acres of land that was so wet that it wouldn't even produce good pasture. A system of open ditches was planned to remove the excess water from the field. The ditches have been installed and the entire field prepared for seeding to permanent pasture this fall. It is too early to tell how well the ditches will work but Sherwood says "I am well pleased with the ditches and believe they will help this field a lot."

Stark Erwin and T. S. Wilkerson, south of Wiswell, have completed drainage ditches on their farms.

Drainage is one of the practices with which ACP will cost share with farmers. To qualify for this work application must be made at the ASC office prior to doing the work and the SCS office must approve the job when completed. A. D. Elkins, near Protimus, has made a remarkable change in a field on his farm. He used a bulldozer to level gullied areas and remove bushes. Natural draws in the field were leveled and shaped for grass waterways. The entire field has been limed and fertilized according to soil test and seeded to a mixture of grasses and legumes.

Willie Gruggett, near Hickory Grove, has constructed one of the finest ponds you will see in the county. The entire drainage area above the pond is well protected with grass.

Finance Your Fall Seeding With A PCA Planned Loan

Fall seeding time is here again. Seed, fertilizer, fuel and labor are very expensive. Farmers who are able to pay cash for these items usually save money. We ask you to think of PCA for your source of money.

You save many ways with a PCA Loan. You save by paying cash for production items. PCA interest is charged only for the actual number of days you use the money. Don't fret over finances. See us today at PCA.

FARM BUREAU in Action

Kentucky Farm Bureau Fed.
Trade Program Turns To Sales And Service By Larry May

Farm Bureau's foreign trade development program is undergoing a change, switching from a strictly promotional program to one of sales and service.

The change will put the Farm Bureau Trade Development Corporation in a position where it can more effectively promote the sale of U.S. agricultural products in export markets and develop new markets.

The corporation is entering into written agreements which offer its services to state Farm Bureaus and private traders. The services are:

1. Represent the seller in export markets.
2. Assist buyers to find the commodities they want.
3. Issue export market information periodically.
4. Supply market research information.
5. Advise on export sales procedures.
6. Make available samples and promotional materials to prospective buyers.
7. Supply both seller and buyer with translations on weights, measure and currency.
8. Interpret standards and grades.
9. Provide "good buy" information.
10. Other services will be available to subscribers on a contract basis. The corporation will:

1. Sponsor brand promotions in specific markets.
2. Represent the seller in specific markets.
3. Make available to clients the full services of the corporation's offices in Rotterdam and Chicago.
4. Study special markets on request.
5. Organize special trade conferences for exporters and importers.
